Foreword

*"There was a child went forth every day,
And the first object she looked upon
That object she became,
And that object became part of her
For the day
or a certain part of the day,
Or for many years
or stretching cycles of years . . .*

Headmistress' Message

*"... that child who went forth every day,
and who now goes, and will always go forth every day."*

And so the Seniors go forth to college and to all the excitement that lies ahead. May each of you face life with assurance yet humility, with steadfast purposes yet tolerance, with courage yet the wisdom to learn from others. Let each day be a new beginning. Look forward always, for in so doing you will have the glorious experience of shaping your dreams of the present into realities.

Miss Margaret McGuire

DEDICATION

Because she is not only firm, but also human; not always lenient, but never implacable; not merely interested, but also understanding; because she has interpreted for us the meaning of knowledge; we, the class of nineteen hundred and sixty-five, dedicate this yearbook to Miss Margaret McGuire—not merely a teacher, but also a friend.

FACULTY

*“And the child was led by wise
who had already been forth,
who had arrived and who were yet always going forth.
And they established
a continuous dialogue day after day
striving for perfect communication, often ending in frustration.”*

Special Dedication

The class of 1965, to express our sincerest gratitude for her enthusiasm and sincerity, makes this special dedication to a very exceptional person, Miss Katherine Rowley. Although she has not been an active member of the faculty for two years, her candor and endless energy will be fondly remembered by us all.

Karen Joan Bruck

Karen, our levelheaded, conciliatory, conscientious Student Council President, can usually be seen in one of several places. Often you may find her browsing in Saks shoe department or perhaps more frequently she may be satisfying her Newstead neurosis by cruising along Overhill Road and the surrounding area. Karen's tranquil air is rarely disturbed, except perhaps when she undergoes that nightly torture of waiting for the phone to ring, or when she is suddenly panic-stricken, realizing she may have to wear the same sweater twice in one month. It is the rare person who can realize her own shortcomings (history?) as well as her own strong points as Karen seems to have done. She can laughingly comment on her artistic ability, confident that this is compensated for in math class. Although Karen insists that life isn't all work, the most important goal for her now is acceptance to college—and work is certainly the key to that!

*... strong in will
To strive, to seek, to find, and not to yield.*

Alfred, Lord Tennyson

Barbara Lee Karen

Barbara is a puzzling paradox. We remark that she is "easy-going" yet can wonder at the verity of this when we witness her extreme determination at work. Perhaps this is because Barbara takes many things on a serious note; or perhaps this is because of her sincere nature. Her closest friends will confidently tell you that Barbara is an emotional and sincere person with a rare sense of humor. Her friends are an important part of her life, which is constantly filled, and she can always display her deep-hearted concern for them. Barbara is a vibrant person, always involved with something and never bored. Her main objective is to be in rapture—and if we can predict success as proportional to determination, Barbara will certainly attain her desires.

You may be whatever you resolve to be—Determine to be something in the world and you will be something.

J. Hawes

Doris Ann Lusenick

Q. "What do you value most in the world, Doris?"

A. "Yogurt!"

As unexpected as this answer, is Doris' outlook on life: "Never thought about it." A scholar in spite of herself, Doris possesses a treasure chest of esoteric humor (DTC-C), which creates a somewhat puzzling, yet bright light in the Senior III class. Along with her Ringo-like responses to candid questions, Doris is inspired with an enthusiastic and fun-loving spirit, evident in her ardent support of our school dances. Although she is an ardent lover of football and baseball, and would like nothing better than to have Willie Mays as a graduation speaker, Doris has her serious moments. Perhaps some day when Doris is an eminent psychologist (doubtless in Ithaca, N.Y.), she will discover the Freudian theory behind yogurt.

I shall light a candle of understanding in thine heart, which shall not be put out.

Esdras II

Mary Ellen Rittman

Mary Ellen is a pleasant combination of stately poise and girlish giggles. Known by her special laugh, Mare possesses a definite gracious manner, which always shows in her deep understanding and sincere feelings for her friends. According to Mare, one must create one's own happiness. Her happiness is often evident in the look of pleasant anticipation which crosses her face, in her remarkable equanimity, and in her serene carriage. Insincerity and superficiality—two qualities which she does not possess—are an anathema to her. Being noted for her elegantly long fingernails perhaps accounts for the fact that Mare has few if any enemies. In short—and in her own words—the world is very baby blue for Mare and we're sure the shades will never get too somber.

The whole drift of my education goes to persuade me that the world of our present consciousness is only one out of many worlds of consciousness that exist.

William James

Linda Ruth Taffet

Tenacious, loquacious, vivacious, capricious—one could probably go on and on—for Linda's is a personality which certainly shines vividly in one's mind. Linda, who has "debated" her way through two and a half years at P.H.S., is a bright and bubbling brook—always on the move whether it be verbally or athletically. Her insight, which enables her to see the point of view which others miss, perhaps accounts for the fact that Linda is a fearless crusader in debates—particularly concerning religion and E.S.P. Her pursuits for happiness range from reading E. A. Robinson's poetry, to boys, to chocolate cake for breakfast. However Linda places the highest value on intelligence. Her impatience with stupidity is equalled only by her dislike for narrowmindedness. Of great importance to Linda also are loyalty and true friendship, which she exhibits as well as enjoys.

Two roads diverged in a wood, and I took the one less traveled by, And that has made all the difference.

Robert Frost..

Judith Nancy Wald

An iconoclast who combines objectivity and creativity, Judy is a many-faceted person—sun worshipper, sports car enthusiast, a complex, minx-like creature of many moods—who can play Beethoven or worship Bob Dylan with equal intensity. Reticent about emotional display, she often says little, not because she feels too little, but because she feels too much. Judy's free and independent spirit thrives on the unorthodox and is laced with sensitivity and imagination. Individual and original in her own right, Judy decries the custom of labeling others (particularly as "teenage").

As she fuses dreaming and doing we know that Judy will make her mark as a writer. She has her eye on a star, and we know that she will reach it.

*"We are the music makers,
and we are the dreamers of dreams . . ."*

Arthur O'Shaughnessy

Mary Magdalene Leskiw

Underneath a somewhat deceptively quiet, shinyhaired, innocent exterior, lies the lesser known Maggie. Occasionally we have glimpses of the real Maggie—although she maintains that no one really knows her. We know of pieces of Maggie's life—fond memories of Peddie—Ocean Grove—a life for fun—varied likes and dislikes—but generally Maggie's life is a private one. What we can observe is that although Maggie professes to have little faith in human nature and dislikes insincere people, she is a highly agreeable girl—who noticeably refrains from arguing because she feels it silly. What we definitely know about Maggie is that she is a talented artist, that she plays the harp, that she wants to get married and have money, and that we know less than we would like to know about her.

STUDENT COUNCIL OFFICERS

The Student Council is composed of the entire student body. Each grade, beginning in the Junior I year, elects a girl to represent their class on the Student Council. The President is elected by the whole student body in the spring preceding the year she is to take office. The Chief Justice is chosen from the Senior III class also. The Student Council elects the Secretary from the Senior II class, while the representative from the Senior II class is automatically the Treasurer. All Student Council members must have at least a B- average.

The main goal of the Student Council is to carry out discipline throughout the student body. This is accomplished through the demerit system. This system has been in existence for the past four years and has turned out to be very effective.

Each year the Student Council sponsors a fair. This year the title of it was "The Village Square." The Fair was so successful that the student body was able to make a substantial donation to the building fund.

The success of the Student Council this year has been made possible by the co-operation its members have given.

National Honor Society

The Prospect Hill chapter of the National Honor Society was founded in 1959 for the stimulation of scholarship, leadership and service.

The Honor Society serves the school with such activities as having a separate table at the Fair, posting special bulletins, and having certain activities for its members.

Membership is based on scholarship, service, and character. Eligibility also rests on the student's being on the Honor Roll sometime during the year as well as the high recommendation of both the faculty and the Headmistress.

New members are announced at the commencement exercises where they are presented with a gold pin and a membership card. Membership in the National Honor Society is one of the highest honors in Prospect Hill and is an honor for which all should strive.

Glee Club

The Glee Club was again skillfully directed by Mrs. Collins this year. The annual Christmas program with the Lower School as well as a concert with Newark Academy at the Memorial Home was a great success. The Chord, composed of twelve girls, sang several special songs at each of the concerts. On March 13, the lower school put on Hansel and Gretel. The Glee Club helped them in their presentation. In May there was a concert with Hun School at Prospect Hill, and also another joint sing with Newark Academy, this time at their new school in Livingston. The Glee Club sang the traditional songs at graduation.

French Club

The Cercle Français of PHS collects its members from those students who study and enjoy French and wish to add to their class-room knowledge of French, and France. This year they took a trip to the Newark Library to see an exhibit on French Castles, such as the famous Charbourg. They also hoped to go in May to the home of one of their advisers, Miss Dallery, to cook a French meal. Mrs. Kretzschmar, the other adviser, has presented films and other projects.

Athletic Association

The Athletic Association is a group composed of representatives from each class and a president from the Senior Class. The President and the Representatives, along with the teachers, Mrs. Taylor and Mrs. Tarver, strive for the development of good sportsmanship and healthy bodies. The activities vary from exercises and modern dance to basketball, softball, and swimming.

The Fair

November 21, 1964, was the date and Prospect Hill was the place. The event was our annual fair. This year the theme was Greenwich Village and after much deliberation we decided to call it "The Village Square."

The fair attracted the young and old alike. We sold books, novelties, Christmas items, and plain and fancies. One new addition was the Parcel Post table which consisted of packages sent from foreign countries and the United States. The only clue you had to its possible contents was its post mark. By 12 o'clock we were selling hot dogs, hamburgers, pizza, cake, candy, and cokes to satisfy not only our patrons' appetites but also the workers' appetites. In the afternoon there was a movie to keep the children occupied so that parents could shop around for Christmas gifts. To end this gala event a raffle was held. The prizes were worth between $15.00 and $100.00.

If it had not been for the co-operation the student body and faculty gave, the Fair could not have been the success it was. Although after all, part of its success was due to our parents and friends who patronized it.

We made a substantial amount of money from the Fair and it was put towards the new building Prospect Hill hopes to add and see completed very soon.

Spilled Ink

The Spilled Ink newspaper staff for the 1964-65 season was narrowed to include only the Senior II class, facilitating organization and production of the paper. Appearing about once a month, the Spilled Ink covered the major events of the school year, as well as important world events. It included articles pertaining to the upper and lower schools. New and different columns such as "Uncle Jeremiah," an advice-to-anyone section; a serial story; and a cartoon melodrama were added this year, and were of interest to all.

One of the major production problems occurred when they learned to mimeograph the stencils, an event which shocked, dirtied, and ultimately helped the staff. The Spilled Ink has been a successful undertaking, adding not only to the Senior II treasury, but most of all to the enjoyment of its readers.

Underclass

"The sweet innocents."

"Mommy, my slip is showing."

"Prospect Hill success attend thee . . ."

"You think you've got problems now?"

"Did you hear that the Seniors got their dresses after only 13 stores?"

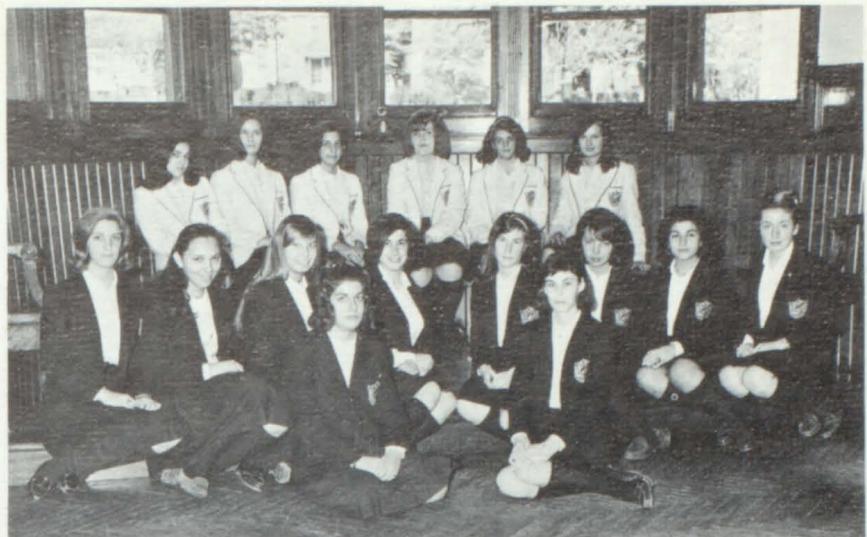

"Do you think anyone will see us?"

Informals

"This seat is going to be awfully crowded next year if we don't get into college!"

"They're fresh for a change."

"Mrs. Hooper wants us?"

"Imagine, thinking my skirt is too short."
